PUBLICATION RULES

CENTRO STUDI SPORTS LAW AND POLICY CENTRE

Article 1

Every scholarly contribution submitted for publication to Centro Studi Sports Law and Policy Centre s.r.l. semplificata must be unpublished, original and compliant with the editorial requirements established for that purpose.

Article 2

The scholarly contribution is prepared under the responsibility of its Author and reflects only the Author's views and opinions. It must be prepared with due care, objectivity and accuracy and must not contain false, defamatory or misleading information or statements, or material that otherwise infringes the rights of others. An Author who authorises Centro Studi Sports Law and Policy Centre to publish a scholarly contribution assumes any liability arising from infringement of third-party rights resulting from or caused by its content and undertakes to indemnify and hold harmless the Centre and its predecessors and successors in title against all liability and claims for compensation, including legal costs.

Article 3

A scholarly contribution submitted to Centro Studi Sports Law and Policy Centre must comply with its Editorial Guidelines and the peer-review process it has established for publication.

Article 4

The scholarly contribution must not include, directly or indirectly, material that is merely advertising or promotional. The Author must comply with ordinary principles of transparency and disclose any conflicts of interest or shared interests that might affect the objectivity of its content.

Article 5

Before publication, the scholarly contribution must be reviewed and undergo peer review by the editorial board of Centro Studi Sports Law and Policy Centre, which will make all decisions at its sole discretion.

Article 6

If these Rules are breached, the editorial board of Centro Studi Sports Law and Policy Centre may, on its own initiative, remove or revise the scholarly contribution, in whole or in part.

Article 7

Collaboration with Centro Studi Sports Law and Policy Centre through the submission and publication of scholarly contributions is unpaid. The Author waives any share, including any future share, in proceeds from their commercial exploitation and reproduction in any form and by any means.

Article 8

The publisher may reproduce scholarly contributions published by Centro Studi Sports Law and Policy Centre, in whole or in part and in any form, in its other publications connected or related to the journal (the official website of the Rivista di Diritto ed Economia dello Sport, the publisher's website and the official newsletter).

Article 9

Authors must obtain the publisher's express prior written authorisation before reproducing, in whole or in part, online or in print, in other journals any scholarly contributions already published in the Rivista di Diritto ed Economia dello Sport.

Article 10

By submitting a scholarly contribution to the editorial board of Centro Studi Sports Law and Policy Centre and having it published, each Author accepts these Rules.
